

TAMRA GREEN

SITE COORDINATOR

Tamra Green gleams with creativity and resourcefulness. She was born and raised in New Haven, Connecticut, by a mom who owned two businesses: a daycare and a tailoring shop. Growing up under that entrepreneurship propelled her creativity (entrepreneurship) and avid desire to teach children and to work with families.

Ms. Green began her work as the Site Coordinator of the Family Resource Center at Augusta Lewis Troup School in July of 2016. Prior to becoming a Site Coordinator, Ms. Green worked as an Education Enrichment Coordinator at the old Dixwell Q House, a Daycare Specialist, a Crafts Person at Barfield's Tailoring Shop, and a Music Teacher for 16 years with the New Haven Public Schools. Also, over the course of 35 years or so, she volunteered as a Youth Leader, Choir Director, Children's Church worker, Activities Coordinator, Christian Education Teacher and All-Around Church helper.

As FRC Site Coordinator, Tamra uses her creativity and resourcefulness to help support students, families and the school by collaborating with local agencies and organizations to build up the Whole Child. She believes whole heartedly that Parents are the child's first teacher and that when parents receive the help they need for the family, it helps to build a stronger community.

Tamra Green is a graduate of Gateway Community College and Ashford University where she received her Associates and Bachelor's degree in Early Childhood Education and Administration. She is the mother of three gifted young adults who were also born and raised in Connecticut, were taught to give back to their community and is making their mother very proud!
